++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Bright spells with showers, some heavy, especially in the west.

Today:
Some bright or sunny spells with further showers. Some of the afternoon showers will be heavy and slow moving, these mainly in the west with more in the way of drier weather in the east. Warm in the sunshine.

Tonight:
Showers or longer spells of rain persisting along the west coast. Elsewhere showers more scatted with the north and east largely dry, perhaps showers pushing into the northeast later.

Sunday:
Further showery outbreaks of rain, these often heavy and slow moving again with a risk of thunderstorms. Drier and brighter across the far north.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Bright spells and further showers, heavy in places, but generally lighter than previous day. Drier weather pushing east on Tuesday. A band of rain then sweeps east on Wednesday.
